Understanding the Periodic Table ~ Carl Reese

Probably everyone has seen the periodic table. Yet, most people don't understand why it is formatted the way that it is. It's all about the electrons and how they affect chemical bonds. We will discuss the structure, properties, and chemical bonds of atoms.

Epiphanies about Epiphany ~ Jamie Foster

There's a great deal of history to Epiphany and uses of the date. In fact, there are 2,000 more words about Epiphany than there are about Christmas in Wikipedia. Let's see how the visit by the wise men, the baptism of Jesus, a wedding in Cana, and "Little Christmas" all hold claim to this holiday.

Japan in the 1990s ~ Dr. Dick Fairley

Dick was a full-time consultant in the 1990s. He will relate how he obtained consulting jobs with Hitachi and Sony in Tokyo, the consulting work, and some of his social adventures in Japan.

#1005 Zoom: “Sanitarium City of the West:” The Tubercular Boom in Colorado Springs

Tuesday, January 13, 10:00am - 12:00pm

Treating tuberculosis and related medical businesses became the major industry of the later 19th and early 20th centuries in Colorado Springs. It was the source of improving one's habits, wholesomeness, health care, “clean industry,” employment, and housing. This combination brought and/or influenced much of Colorado Springs' elite and artistic populations. In turn it also increased death rates and decreased birth rates.

Location: Zoom. You will receive the Zoom link in the first registration confirmation email.

Katherine Scott Sturdevant: History Professor Emerita of Pikes Peak State College. She has been teaching for PILLAR since its beginning.

The Secret of Secrets series

A Four Part Journey Through Prague on the Path of The Secret of Secrets and Beyond

Thursdays, January 22, 29, February 5, and 12

Author Dan Brown has captivated audiences with his stories for decades and his latest book The Secret of Secrets is no exception. With Prague as the center point, the reader is led through the City of a Hundred Spires through explosive scientific and mystical discoveries. Join us as we learn to unravel these mysteries.

All classes in this series must be registered separately.

#1013 TSofS: The City of Prague

Thursday, January 22, 10:00am - 12:00pm

We will explore the Charles Bridge, St. Vitus Cathedral, Old Jewish Cemetery, Klementinum Library, Crucifix Bastion, and more through the eyes of one who was raised and schooled in Prague.

#1017 TSofS: Noetic Science

Thursday, January 29, 10:00am - 12:00pm

"The day science begins to study non-physical phenomena, it will make more progress in one decade than in all the previous centuries." ~ Nikola Tesla

We will explore the work of the Institute of Noetic Sciences (IONS) which was a major focus of Dan Brown's latest book, The Secret of Secrets. "Some people value science while others value spirituality and experiences. IONS values both. Their premise is that "at the nexus of inner knowing and outer investigation, we will discover entirely new ways of being and of doing that uplift humanity and advance thriving for all."

Ruth Meinking: Ruth is a retired licensed mental health counselor.

#1023 TSofS: Non-Local Consciousness

Thursday, February 5, 1:00pm - 3:00pm (note time)

No one really KNOWS what consciousness is. Many neuroscientists insist it is merely a neurochemical process in the brain, yet some physicists hypothesize it may be more fundamental to reality than matter is. Non-local consciousness is the theory that consciousness isn't confined to the brain or body, but can exist and communicate beyond physical limitations.

#1028 TSofS: The Devil: Evil Without and Within

Thursday, February 12, 10:00am - 12:00pm

The Devil's Bible is a mysterious object with a bizarre history. The largest book in the world, it measures three feet by two feet and weighs 165 pounds. It is kept locked in a bulletproof, fireproof display case in Sweden. The grotesque centerfold of the Devil is intriguing and will lead us into a study of Satan as the Adversary of God and humanity and the tempter of humans to commit evil.

Dr. David Weddle: Dr. Weddle is a retired professor of Christian Studies at Colorado College.

#1020 Coming China Wars - of Geography and Near Space
Wednesday, February 4, 10:00am - 12:00pm

China's government and population face an existential crisis. Some are of their own making, such as population collapse. Some are geographical, such as lack of resources and ocean access. Great nations in such a crisis will fight rather than fade quietly. They may attack Taiwan, and they may attack Russia. This lesson covers the why and how this crisis is likely to play out with emphasis on the Near Space technology demonstrated by the Chinese airship overflight of the US in 2023. That asymmetric military advantage makes China more likely to win than most pundits understand.

#1063 and #1067 Zoom: Religion and Modernity: Exploring the Connections

Thursdays, March 26 and April 2, 10:00am - 12:00pm

Modernity is defined by the rise of several different movements: the invention of Newtonian physics, the revolution in astronomy initiated by Copernicus, the theory of evolution proposed by Charles Darwin, and the rise of historical criticism of the Bible. These classes on Religion and Modernity will ask students to read and be prepared to discuss two lectures written by Dr. Martin Cook. The first one, "The Death of God," explores the radical implications for traditional religion of some of these modernity movements. Second, "Why God Didn't Die After All," explores some of the ways in which religion mutated and adapted to conform to the constraints of modernity. The two lectures will be sent to you by email in March.

Location: Zoom. You will receive the Zoom link in the first registration confirmation email.
